Research Currently in Progress

"Assessing Disproportionate Minority Contact through Quantitative and Qualitative Methods: A Case Study" (On-Going).

Comparing the strengths of different methodologies in assessing juvenile disproportionate minority contact.

"Border Enforcement" (On-Going).

Study of border enforcement along the U.S. and Mexico border.

"In the Line of Fire: Post-Traumatic and Psychological Responses to Officer-Involved Shooting Incidents" (On-Going).

This study will examine the effectiveness of training and treatment programs for police officers and deputies in New Mexico using officer-based surveys of (1) officers who have been involved in deadly force incidents and (2) officers who have yet to be in such encounters. Findings will be triangulated using interviews with police psychologists.

"Introduction to Research Methods in Criminal Justice" (On-Going).

A textbook project designed for an introductory research methods course for criminal justice students. A contract with Kendall Hunt has been signed for this textbook. We are currently working on this. It is scheduled for completion in late 2015.

"Juvenile Justice Along the U.S. and Mexico Border" (Writing Results).

Study of juvenile justice decision-making and youth outcomes. Research began in 2007.

"Ronald Reagan, 1986 IRCA, My Mother, & Me" (On-Going).

A reflective piece on the impact of immigration legislation in my family's life.

"School to Prison Pipeline in Dona Ana County" (Planning).

The "school-to-prison pipeline" refers to the policies and practices that push our nation's schoolchildren, especially our most at-risk children, out of classrooms and into the juvenile and criminal justice systems. This pipeline reflects the prioritization of incarceration over education.
